

Don't Quote Me – Sports Illustrated Edition Wins 2006 Game of the Year Award!

London, ON Canada: August 9, 2006

Wiggles 3D is delighted to announce that Creative Child Magazine, a leading publisher and resource in the parenting industry has awarded the new Don't Quote Me – Sports Illustrated Edition board game the 2006 Game Of The Year award in the Family Games category. This is the top award given in the category.

"We are delighted at being recognized with our first award for the Sports Illustrated game," says Wiggles 3D creator and owner Don Reid. "The award validates the creativity and exceptional play value that the game offers!"

The fourth in a series of award-winning games by Wiggles 3D, the Don't Quote Me – Sports Illustrated game, co-branded with Time Inc.'s Sports Illustrated magazine, is packed with quotes and questions covering over 50 sports topics. With professional sports, amateur athletes, sports movies and TV shows, and everything from baseball and soccer to golf and auto racing, the game offers a knockout punch!

Featuring five different question types in five categories, players explore team sports, individual sports, vintage questions (pre-1990), sports entertainment, famous nicknames, and more as they race around an innovative puzzle game board to win. Hints and options help players succeed, while action cards keep players involved on every turn. Plus, sports fans love the facts and figures that come with every answer.

Games also come in a magnetic travel version and are available in the U.S. at Barnes & Noble Stores now and at Linens 'n Things, Menards, Sport Chek and Toys R Us in the fall.

Creative Child Magazine is known for its excellence in promoting creativity and learning in play and delivering the latest information on nurturing creativity. Their Top Creative Toy Award program was designed to provide families with gift ideas throughout the year.

Sports Illustrated is the definitive weekly sports magazine with over three million subscribers and 21 million readers each week. Its Web site, SI.com, delivers more than 150 original stories per week and generates more than 350 million page views per month.
