"You know, I always told you boys that sports aren't important, but they are."
—Martin Crane, on Frasier

Watching baseball or football together is just one of the ways we can bond with the father figures in our lives while we are growing up. Other memories might be of time spent on the golf course, discussing politics at the dinner table or helping to repair something around the house. Mostly, though, relationships with our fathers are built simply by spending time together.

On Father's Day, we salute dads everywhere. Entertain your listeners and readers with quotes about fathers and fatherhood as we celebrate Father's Day on June 18, 2006. Here's a sampling:

"My father used to play with my brother and me in the yard. Mother would come out and say, 'You're tearing up the grass.' 'We're not raising grass,' Dad would reply. 'We're raising boys.'"
--Harmon Killebrew

"By the time a man realizes that maybe his father was right, he usually has a son who thinks he's wrong."
--Charles Wadsworth

"My father gave me the greatest gift anyone could give another person. He believed in me."
--Jim Valvano
