London, Canada - November 1, 2005

As you look ahead to your editorial and gift guide features for the holiday season, you'll find many reasons to include the multiple award-winning new Don't Quote Me – TIME For Kids Edition board game, developed through license with Time Inc.'s TIME For Kids newsmagazine.

The game delivers a unique combination of literacy, problem-solving, social interaction and fun. Embraced by parents, teachers and industry professionals alike, the game has already won four awards and is being recognized for its excellence in creativity, design, durability and play value:

"The awards validate that the new Don't Quote Me – TIME For Kids board game is an exceptional game for kids, families and educators," says Keith Garton, Editorial Director at TIME For Kids. "We're delighted with the recognition and popularity of the new game and the learning, challenge and fun it offers for the whole family! TIME For Kids newsmagazine is distributed to 4.2 million students and over 160,000 teachers each week.

The third in a series of award-winning games by Wiggles 3D, the new Don't Quote Me – TIME For Kids Edition is an educational game that is packed with 1,000 quotes and questions covering topics that kids know and study. Each question provides background information with interesting and fun facts. A puzzle game board that players build as they go and a variety of event cards provide action-packed fun! The game also comes in a magnetic travel version ideal for active families and friends on the go. Designed for ages 10+, it's outstanding family entertainment.

Toy testers are saying,

"...questions in this game are a great mix of things mom or dad would know and things the children know from school and the media. Families find this game enjoyable because everyone can play together and the parents don't have all the answers."

Entertaining, educational and fun, this game is a hit with kids and families alike and deserves to be part of your holiday editorial.

Games are available at Barnes & Noble Stores, Toys R Us and educational supply stores.
